

Living with pain?
Caring for someone who lives with pain?

Join the British Pain Society Patient Reference Group

The British Pain Society is an alliance of professionals advancing the understanding and management of pain; it works with patients for the benefit of all patients living with or in pain.

We are looking for people of all ages from all areas of the UK, both people living with pain and their carers, to join the Patient Reference Group to help improve our work. Members of the group are asked to volunteer to comment by email on materials such as patient guidance information and take part in surveys that help the Society understand how patients and carers feel.

We will keep your details securely and will not share them with any organisation outside of the British Pain Society.

To join go to: <http://eepurl.com/Zalkv>

For more information about the British Pain Society and what we do, visit our website at: www.britishpainsociety.org.